DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 18-20, and 23-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Freitas et al. (5,330,497). Freitas discloses a medical device insertion apparatus comprising a trocar (12), an access tube (28,30) disposed around the trocar, the access tube comprising a first sheath (28) and a second sheath (30) having a retention portion (20) disposed at a distal end of the second sheath, the retention portion reconfigurable between a first configuration of reduced lateral extent (Figure 1) and a second configuration of increased lateral extent (Figure 2) by movement of the first sheath relative to the second sheath and an overtube (72) disposed around the access tube and movable relative to the access tube, wherein the trocar is connected to the access tube by a mating connection, wherein the retention portion includes first and second wings, wherein the first sheath includes a connector (40) and the second sheath includes a connector (60), the connector of the first sheath couplable with the connector of the second sheath, wherein the first sheath includes a second connector (62), and the retention portion is configured in the second configuration by moving the second sheath distally with respect to the first sheath.

Claims 18-20 and 26-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Scribner et al. (5,830,125). Scribner discloses a medical device insertion apparatus comprising a trocar (70), an access tube (20,30), the access tube comprising a first sheath (20) and a second sheath (30), the second sheath having a retention portion (38) disposed at a distal end of the second sheath, the retention portion reconfigurable between a first configuration of reduced lateral extent and a second configuration of increased lateral extent by movement of the first sheath relative to the second sheath and an overtube (50) disposed around the access tube and movable relative to the access tube, wherein the trocar is matingly connected to the access tube and the retention portion includes first and second wings. It is the position of the Examiner that the inherent use of the device disclosed by Scribner meets all of the limitations of the method disclosed by the Applicant.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 26-32 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 10-16 of U.S. Patent No. 6,743,207. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because there is no additional step recited in the instant application that makes the instant claims patentably distinct from the patented claims. The same steps are described but in different words (ex- "removing the access tube" and "withdrawing the access tube").

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 21 and 22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
